THE U. S. EMBASSY LITERATURE SERIES

TOM LEVEEN

TOM LEVEEN reads from his young adult novel
Random (Ich hätte es wissen sollen, Hanser Verlag)

Moderator: Jeremy Fowler, U.S. Embassy

Who's the real victim here? A tense and gripping exploration of cyberbullying and teen suicide.

Late at night Tori receives a random phone call. It's a wrong number. But the caller seems to want to talk, so she stays on the line. He asks for a single thing—one reason not to kill himself.

In cooperation with Hanser Verlag München
and Thalia Buchhandlungen

THE LAB

A DATE WITH CATHERINE DUQUETTE

This is a participatory performance exploring love and attraction and the personas by which we pursue them. Catherine Duquette has created four distinct dating profiles based on four personas abstracted from her everyday identity.

YOU the audience are her date. You are full of possibility. You are an invitation for an intimate encounter, self-projection or an awkward exchange. YOU the audience are also her competition. You are her gauge. You are an invitation for self-evaluation and self-deprecation.

SCIENCE & THEATRE

ISAAC'S EYE

By Lucas Hnath

Isaac Newton wants to become a member of the Royal Society. Catherine wants to start a family. Robert Hooke wants to know what Newton knows. The guy with the plague wants to stay alive. They conduct a risky experiment.

Afterwards, Newton doesn't know any more than before but Hooke gets his sex diary back, Catherine's skepticism is stronger than ever and the guy with the plague is dead.

Science moves in mysterious ways.

Isaac's Eye mixes the facts of Isaac Newton's life with an equal dose of fiction to explore what great people are willing to sacrifice to become great people. It puts the history of science onstage, juxtaposing historical characters and facts with our 21st century based projection of them.

Three additional performances of the best science comedy out there!

Directed by Günther Grosser

With Mary Kelly, Ben Maddox, Jeffrey Mittleman and Logan Verdoorn
